Yesterday was one of the most important days since the commoncement of the company. Builtmore was fully open to the passage of Federal troops, and that city was fully reducement from the Secusionists, who have so many raisod it. One of the officers informs us that he never saw such a deconstration of love away manifested by the Builtmore rescribed. deemed from the Securations, who have as manifer miles it forms in that he never saw such a deconstration of joy as was manifested by the Battimore people as the landing of the troops from the steamers. Upwards of ten thousand people assembled and followed the troops through the effects. Not a his or a sound of disapprobation was keard during the whole maren. The people seemed to vie with each other in cheering, and other particular demonstrations.

The Stars and Strives were thrown to the brocas along the route, while the so diers repond of with hearty cheers to the demonstrations. Capt. Shorman's bestery was placed with three guns in advance, and three in the rear, while the infantry marched with closed ranks, in the centre, and with a file or each side of the sirect, to keep it diese. They carried their markets loaded, with shormet fand. They grid not see a consistent of the first particular to the sirect, to keep it diese. They carried their markets loaded, with shormet fand. The defeat that the secessionists have encountered is but momentary. They will moderate their demands upon the forbearonce of the rable, and in some way will then rate their demands upon the forbearonce of the public, and in some way will then secure their gratification. Once in possession of the arms and munitions of war, the engineers who have brought her to the very verge of rebellion and treason will push her over the brink and thereby make her the horrible theatre of civil war.

The productions, the real sympathises, the material interests and the hopes of future growth and prosperity bind her to the Free States. The Northwest is fail of her gallant and loyal sons, almost every man of whom is carnest in the support of the Gortenment. She has imbibed and is working out Northern ideas of the duties and obligations of a State. Her great statesman, now dead, and her most conspicuous citizen yet living (Mr. Guthrie) point out her duty in such a way that all can see. She has no identify with that rampant, fillibutering, nigger-importing and slavery-extending manis that has plunged the Cotton States into rebellion and misery. Her interest is peace, and the growth and encouragement of free labor—the extension and perpetuation of the means of education—the division of labor—the coming in of emigraints and the general policy of the that she art she is loyal; that her people has the name of traitor; and that left to the dictates of their own hearts and consciences they would be true to the Stars and Stripes. country an enormous tax to be paid in future years, and it will probably destroy the lives of thomsands of loyal citizens. In the name of patriotism, can tals treason go unpunished? Will it be possible that the Government can heal it with any wishy washy complacency? It is absolutely essential to the future welfare of the country that it be so treated now, as forever hereafter to be feared and to athed. As of the constitute to be feared and loatness, no country before was ever afflicted with such base, extensive, impedent, destructive and utterly consoless treason, so the punishment and co-extensive and co-extensive terly causeless treason, so the punishment should be commensurate and co-extensive with the crime. And as our country, differing with other countries, and for the greater protection of liberty, has made treason to consist in the oyart act only, when the overt set does come, it surely ought to be nipped in the bad—it ought to be seetched and cauterized so that it will never spring up again in the same place. The leading traitors in each so-ceding Biste should be hung, the property of all traitors should be confiscated. Nothing less than the will estary the imperative demands of justice. REAPEND ITS REWAID.—The New York Express announces that the morning edition of that paper will cease to exist after the 18th inst., the Southern patronage upon which it has mainly been sustained, having been catively withdrawn. We hear intimations that the Journal of Commerce is likely to share the fate of its sympathetic friend, and from the same cause.

137 The New York Courier and Enquirer argues that there is great danger that the Southern army now assembling at Harper's Ferry, may make a dash at Philadelphia rather than at Washington. From the evident movement of the Government, we may suspect that there are official people at Washington who share that applieds.

NUMBERS.—There are eight and a half millions of whites in the Slave States, and nineteen millions in the FreeStates. Bull Delaware, Maryland, Kentucky and Missouri may be considered as neutralized by the Union sentiment within them. The same may be said of Western Virginia and Eastern Tennessee. There is Varginia and Eastern Tennessee. There is alse a strong under current of Union senti-ment in all of the Siare States, while the North is united for the Government as one man. Hence we think the effective rebela man. Hence we think the effective rebels carned be estimated at over five millions. There are four million of Slaves in the South, and the same of the merly all of whom are in the rebellions States and communities, for slavery and rebellion go hand in hand. We think this a source of weakness, more than equal to the want of a million of men. Hence, considering the rebels as equivalent in numbers to four millions of untrammeted whites, the north exceeds them in numbers almost five times.

TRANSFORTATION.—All of the Northern States are perfectly intersected with railroads, far more so than the Southern States. The poor States of Arksman, Texas and Florids, have scarcely any at all. The railroads of the other Slave States mostly lead to ports which will be blocksfad. Hence the North can much more cheaply concentrato troops within her borders than can the South. Troops can be moved from Boston, Providence, Connecticut, New York and Philadalphia. mands of justice. This policy should be early proclaimed by the Government, thus those horought to the perfection of the fine arts.

Our readers will be no less glad than we are to learn that the military bill before the Legislature of Kentucky has been defeated though by a small vote. It provided for an appropriation of sie military experiments of the sale of the bones of the great Washington, one of deliars for putting the State on a war footing, all of which was to be spent under the direction of Magoffin & Co., who after Claib, Jackson & Co., are the most unter the direction of Magoffin & Co., who after Claib, Jackson & Co., are the most unter the direction of Magoffin & Co., who after Claib, Jackson & Co., are the most unter the direction of Co., are the most unterpretation of the control o In conclusion then, if the Govern

Note from Captain Marsh.

Editors Chimgo Tribune:

Having just seen your paper of Monday, 182 inst., in which your editorial throws some reflections upon Col. Williams and Col. Wood the Commiseary and Quartermaster Generals of this State, pormit me, who, perhaps of all others, havshad a better opportunity to observe the operations of their different departments, to say, that the emergency that so suddenly forced their departments into extended and unusual operations, also called upon those officers to select as their assistants, such men as they knew were best fitted for their positions, and nearest within their reach. Was it not matural that they should select those whom they had been most familiarly sequalities within the same they could immediately command?

As far as Captains Bradford, Webber, Owen and Armstrong are concerned, I can bear cheegrul and willing testimony to their efficiency in their several departments. Ido not think that among the severa though and not over, encamped at Springfield, that you will find a man who will not cordially endorse me in my approval of the conduct of the officers named, and my only wonder is, that in so short a time men could have been selected who would have given so universal satisfaction. Their dut a were arduous and incessant and often annoying, but were surges and good nature.

As to the other officers mentioned, I can formed with the utmost willingness and good nature.

As to the other officers mentioned, I can only say that as far as my ditties brought me in contact with them, I have found them willing and compelent to perform the business of their separate departments.

It is with others than the heads of the departments you mention, that Chicago should find fault.

Hastily yours.

The terror that has been rather gratultously displayed on account of the Zou, ves, is dying away. The regiment are ridding themselves of the lawless element to at came, and the regiment that came, with some thirty of their number who were not really firemen, but interlopers. To-day? heard a soldier say to two of the "Lamba," "come in and take something." But they passed by the temptation, saying. "Our boys have a bad enough name now, and we must bring it up again." There is much real want among some of the troops, many of whom came—as the first troops from Pennsylvania—right from their work to save Washington, determined to be in before the death. An effort is making to get clothes for such as need them. One good entires to distribute them, one good entires told me to day that several soldiers had been to his "handwars store to sell their pistols to get money to buy provisions. These are extreme essee—incident to the haste of the troops in leaving, and the great difficulty of having every thing work just right at first in such an army, so lately called here. There is, too, an evidence of work in a store to sail the ending here in the stores and markets. Even the newspapers have risen to war prices—doubling their recent rates in some cases. An evidence of want in a New Jersey soldier was forently impressed on me this noon—when he came feathestly up, and how furlionally every tookedo chower will imagine, and said "please give me there cents to buy a plug of tookaco with I am out of money and they don't give ms any." Of course, though we do not chew, but eached it is the easiest thing in the world as most serious one.

The serious side of the war movement is fill, we have no doubt, by every soldier at times, and by every one who views all this pomp and circumstatice of death dealing muster, rise, pistola, knives, and the riled camber of these dwell and and the second bare as well as most, and remainders that the

It was they who stimulated the madness of the first the present difficulties.

It was they who stimulated the madness of the Guil States, by the promise of eventual coperation. It was they who might at any sime, e en atter the actual secession outbreak of last November, have arrested it by declaring a resolute sact unconditional adherence to the Union. But they would take counsel of nothing but their own folly andarrogance, and, vainly dreaming that they could dictate terms to the nation, have proved by the event, that they possessed only the poor power of ruining themselves. Speeches were made by the Chaplain, one of the Secretaries and a Master of a vessel on our lake. The speeches were first-clean, there was axcellent singing, and all secented glad to be present on the occasion.

At the close of the meeting's gentleman came forward to the Secretary and stated that he was a stranger here, but that he had stiended the meeting on Sabbath afternoon, and was present again this evening, and was surprised that no contribution had been asked form addients, adding that he had some knowledge of the situation of the men on our waters, and of the value of these efforts for their salvation.

Let it be summarily dealt with, wherever its horrid tracks are discovered. By the articles of war, deserters are punished with death by hanging. The army label with death by hanging.

WHAT SHALL WE DO WITH If we subdue the rebels what shall we do with them? is a question that has seriously troubled a great number of intelligent and well meaning people. The whole South are now sufficiently impatient of control. They will not govern themselves in accordance with the principles of the in accordance with the principles of the constitution, and it will not pay for us, neither is it in accordance with the genlus of our institutions to keep a standing army there to govern them.

These are serious topics of inquiry and were they likely to be realized, the Government might well pause before resorting to extreme measures. But the position which the Cotton States occupy makes it imperathe blessings of our christian civilizastitution and the laws, at any cost and a all hazardz. This must be done or oursafe is not worth a years' purchase. Let mil-lions of treasure and hundreds of thous-ands of lives be freely sacrificed; let war, with all the most designetive engines that vent, ravage the land for a whole gener before the Government abates one jot or tittle of its authority. And what will be the political status of the rebels when subdued? If the contest ends before slavery is wiped out, a permanent solution can slave are sunk in the Gulf of Mexico the answer is easy. In that case they will almost at once become a peacable, loyal, and in a very few years a highly prosperous people.

Our reasons for this opinion are such as must occur to any one who will reflect sarefully upon the whole subject. If a belligerant individual becomes possessed with the idea that he is really the ruling spirit of his town, when some more quie and more powerful man flogs him soundly the braggart reaches to submit to what is inevitable, and at least in the presence of his superior to be pliable and inoffensive. Under the lax, inefficient government of some amiable teacher a school may besome noisy and rebellious, but a man of energy and decided ability soon brings or der out of confusion and those who were the most submissive of pupils. The Massa-hunette Militia.

In according credit to Massachusetts for her readiness and patriotic energy in this crisis—and though much has been said, too much cannot be spoken in her praise—it should not be overlooked, that to the militia system of the State is the country indebted for the first troops under the President's call. Other States had either abolished their militia, or had suffered its death by demoralization. And Massachusetta was in a fair way to follow the general example when Gov. Banks entered upon his office, four years ago. Under his administration the system was wholly reorganized, and, from being a richly and conglomerate affair, it became an effective army corps of

The dotice and compensation of the volunteers were defined.

The State encompenent of these troops, at Concord, in 1859, was the growning act in Governor Banka's efforts in their behalf. His successor, Gov. Andrew, was then in possession of a corps, ready for its finishing touches at his hands, and ready to be employed. Anticipating what has since happened, the Governor caused general orders to be served several monita since, that no further realignations of either efficers or men should be received without good cause therefor. And at his suggestion, the companies very generally filled up their ranks with picked men, expressedby formal action their willingness to answer any demands upon them, and at once commenced their laborious and almost daily drills. It may be said, then, that even as early as the let of March there were from 5,000 to 6,000 men in Massachusetts under arms, and bound by a commissed with the jeers of leading party friends, obtained a small appropriation, which he expended for military overcests, blanket and shirts. And these he had in readiness in Boston when the telegraph announced the fall of Sumter and foreshadowed the official requisition for troops. It was thus that the Massachusetts quota, made up and more than filled by troops who assembled on Boston Common despite the cold rain storm of Tuespromptness save in the Massachusetta minute-men of '70. Glorious "Old Put," who left his plow in the field at the news from Lexington, has an imitator in the Marblehead captain, who left the steeming carcase of a bog that had just been drawn from the scalding tab, and, throwing down his kuife, gave no other word of parting than—"Dum the hog!" Another captain, informed of Gov. Andrew's call by telegraph at ten o'clock on Tuesday morning, had his company on Boston Common in three hours—a distance of some forty miles. The troops thus farsent from Massachusetts compromise of hanging Jeff. Davis and a hundred and fifty other traitors be carried into effect, and the people of the Southern States, under the sacred aegis of the Constitution and the laws, would very soon become peaceful and loyal citizens, It is simply the lax execution of the laws under our late imbecile old Pub. Func. that has enabled the leading traitors of the South to involve the people there in the absurdities of Secession, and what will prove the horrors of war. When the leaders have stretched hemp, or after pocketing all they can of "the famo is fifteen million loan," have incontinently field the country, there will be an abundance of loyal men there to take care of the in-

At Memphis, volunteering is being pushed strongly. There are few arms there, however. The foundries are turning out round shot and the volunteer colders in other free States, there were as many and as well drilled soldiers, exclusive of the regular army, at the North, as there were at the South. Add to this, the ten thousand soldiers in the regular army, and all the trained men amongst the foreign population who have volunteered, and the North was far sheed at that time. Since then, the North having trained in regiments and camps, has improved much more rapidly than the South. Besides, the Northerner is more intelligent, more capable of long application, and more irractable and docile than the Southerner.

Equipments—The Government having an abundance of money and credit, and the North being accustomed to make within her own borders every article of equipment used in war, the Government army will very soon be most perfectly equipped.
